

SUNDAY, 27 JUNE 2010

PAGE PROTECTED BY COPYSCAPE DO NOT COPY

COPYRIGHT LICENSE

This work is licensed under a Creative Commons Attribution 3.0 Unported License.

FEEDBURNER FEEDCOUNT

SUBSCRIBE VIA EMAIL

Enter your email address:

Delivered by FeedBurner

DISCLOSURE POLICY

As a beauty writer, almost everything personally reviewed on this blog has been sent to me via agencies in connection with my job. I don't take incentives or kick-backs and never will. I now take selected advertising in a clear and open fashion. Does it change the way I blog? Are you kidding? I'll always say it how I see it - for me, there is no other way to blog.

Bakel Pure Act Oil Cleanser

I'm a really big fan of Bakel; if I didn't have to try lots of different products, Bakel is definitely one that I'd consider using long term. I was excited to receive the newest product, Pure Act Oil Cleanser, which is suitable for all skin types. It is seriously one of the softest oils I've ever used to cleanse. It is gorgeous and doesn't alter skin's natural moisture levels but your complexion will feel remarkably soft afterwards. I've used it with the Clarisonic and without, and either way it removed every spot of make up and grime. Lovely, lovely!

There isn't all that much information on exactly what's in it..the packaging says vegetable oils, Vitamin E and Vitamin A. But it is worth taking note that the formula doesn't contain perfume, preservatives, perfumes, colourants, alcohol, sulfants, PEG, PPG or that biggest of blogger bug-bears, Silicone.

You'll find Bakel at Harvey Nichols and SpaceNK where the cleanser launches in a few weeks time.

POSTED BY BRITISHBEAUTYBLOGGER AT 14:06 SHARE THIS POST.

